War Trials On; 10 Million Murders Told

By DANIEL DE LUCE

NUERNBERG, Nov. 20 (AP)—A strangely assorted score of gloomy Nazis sat dejectedly today before an international military tribunal and heard themselves formally accused of Nazi war crimes, the murder of 10,000,000 Europeans, plunder, horror and torture.

Throughout the opening session of the historic trial for their lives, Hitlerian followers such as corpulent Hermann Goering, vague Rudolf Hess and defiant Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel listened through earphones while spokesmen of the nations which crushed their hierarchy recited crimes such as the world had never before witnessed.

Former Foreign Minister von Ribbentrop collapsed late in the afternoon session and had to be given sedatives. He was taken from the crowded chamber for 20 minutes after complaining of dizziness and acute neuralgia pain. Doctors said he would be ready for tomorrow's session.

By turns, prosecutors from the United States, Great Britain, France and Russia droned through the four counts of the 24,000-word indictment accusing the last of the leading Nazis of conspiracy to commit crimes against the peace, the actual commission of crimes against the peace, war crimes and crimes against humanity.

Of the 24 originally indicted, one is at large, two are too ill to attend and one has committed suicide. Martin Bormann, Hitler's deputy, is being tried in absentia. Robert Ley, the labor leader, took his own life. Ernst Kaltenbrunner of the Gestapo and Gustav Krupp von Bohlen und Halbach were ill.

Goering shook his head and smiled wanly when he heard himself described as an SS general. But he nodded at allegations: "He promoted accession to power of the Nazi conspirators and the consolidation of their control over Germany."

Ribbentrop, arms folded on chest, half closed his eyes as his name was read.

Hess, when named, sucked in his thin lips, turned to Ribbentrop and muttered.

Rosenberg was superficially lacking in emotion as he was depicted as high priest of the Nazi religion of power.

Frank displayed a wide grin at the reference to his generalship in the SS.

Bormann's misdeeds were read out, although he has been missing since the battle of Berlin.

Wilhelm Frick slumped down in his chair while his "protectorship" of persecuted Czechs was noted.

Albert Speer, former Reichminister of production, twitched about the mouth.

Funk and Schacht listened quietly as their names were reached.

Franz von Papen, gray diplomat, cupped a hand to an ear when the American prosecutor uttered his name.

The old diplomatic front man, Konstantin von Neurath, remained placid.

Baldur von Schirach, head of the Nazi Youth Movement, scowled.

Arthur Seyss-Inquart, who ruled Austria and then the Netherlands, listened stolidly.

Julius Streicher swallowed hard at the charge of anti-Semitism.

Field Marshal Keitel retained his reserve.

Col. Gen. Jodl was grave. Grand Adm. Erich Raeder had a worried look. Grand Adm. Doenitz hardly batted an eye.

The court session ended officially for the day at 5:05 p. m. (11:05 a. m., E. S. T.)

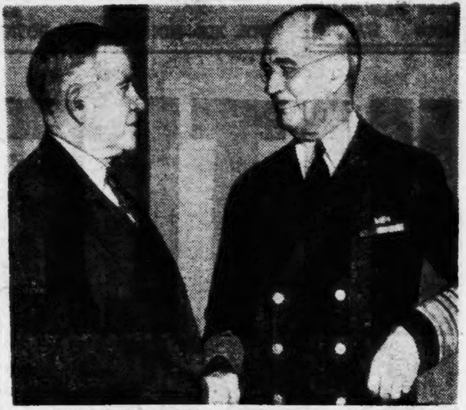
Hess Rocks Away Cramps

Hess

NUERNBERG, Germany, Nov. 20 (AP)—Rudolf Hess suffered an attack of abdominal cramps during a court recess today and was attended by Maj. Douglas Kelley, San Francisco psychiatrist. Dr. Kelley said Hess had been subject to cramp attacks for 20 years.

"I had been watching Hess all morning," the major said. "Suddenly he clasped his hands to his stomach and began to rock back and forth. He moved from an upright to a sitting position until his head was bent forward over the rail of the prisoners' box."

Kelley administered no medicine, but advised the blue-chinned and sunken-eyed Hess to continue rocking.



ADM. J. C. RICHARDSON AND SEN. A. W. BARKLEY

Hearing Chairman Greets Navy Pearl Harbor Witness

Jap Sneak Foretold by Knox

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20 (AP)—The late Navy Secretary, Frank Knox, predicted on Jan. 24, 1941, if war with Japan occurred hostilities might begin with a surprise attack on the Pacific Fleet or the naval base at Pearl Harbor. His prediction was made in a letter to Henry L. Stimson, then Secretary of War, and was disclosed in an exchange of correspondence made public today by the congressional Pearl Harbor investigating committee.

Introduction of the Knox letter was one of several developments at the day's sessions. Others included:

1—Adm. J. O. Richardson, commander of the Pacific fleet until 10 months prior to the Jap attack at Pearl Harbor, testified President Roosevelt was "rather loath" to increase the manpower of the fleet in the midsummer of 1940.

2—Committee aides said Adm. William D. Leahy, Mr. Roosevelt's chief of staff during the war, would be called to testify during the day.

Adm. Richardson also told the committee after a July, 1940, series of conferences with President Roosevelt, Sec. Hull and others, he left Washington "with the distinct impression there was an opinion in Washington Japan could be bluffed."

This came up when Committee Counsel William D. Mitchell asked Richardson what Hull told him, with reference to Richardson's insistence the fleet should not be massed at Pearl Harbor.

"Mr. Hull very completely and comprehensively presented his views on the relations between the United States and Japan," Richardson said. "He felt we should take a very strong position, and that retention of the fleet in Hawaii was a reflection of that strong attitude." Then Richardson added his remark about the bluffing opinion.

The Knox letter, dated more than 10 months prior to the Japanese strike at the base, said, "If war eventuates with Japan, it is believed easily possible hostilities would be initiated by a surprise attack upon the fleet or the naval base at Pearl Harbor."

"In my opinion," Knox wrote, "the inherent possibilities of a major disaster to the fleet or naval base warrant taking every step, as rapidly as can be done, that will increase the joint readiness of the Army and Navy to withstand a raid of the character mentioned above."

Knox envisaged six hazards which he listed in the following order of importance:

Air bombing attack, air torpedo plane attack, sabotage, submarine attack, mining and bombardment by gunfire.

"Defense against all but the first two of these dangers appears to have been provided for satisfactorily," he wrote, adding that he considered the solution of the two types of aerial attack of "primary importance."

Stimson replied in a letter dated Feb. 7, 1941, concurring as to the importance of the matter and "the urgency of our making every possible preparation to meet such a hostile effort."

With uncanny prescience, Knox told Stimson any such Japanese attacks probably would be launched from a striking force of carriers and supporting vessels, with the probable maximum enem effort put at 12 aircraft squadrons, and the minimum at two.

"Both types of air attack are possible," he said. "They may be carried out successfully, simultaneously, or in combination with any of the other operations enumerated."

Parallel Lives

BENTON, Ill., Nov. 20 (AP)—Two women, each bearing the name of Mrs. Earl Sanders, who live on the same street in the same block, each the mother of three sons, occupy the same ward in West Frankfort's Union Hospital.

Within the same hour each woman gave birth to a daughter. Dr. G. G. Moore attended both women.

Higgins Plans Hingham Visit

By AUSTEN LAKE

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 20—Andrew J. Higgins, Sr., labor-troubled boat builder, agreed today to send a representative, possibly himself or one of his four sons, to Boston in the near future to survey the Hingham Shipyard site as a probable base for his vast and varied operations.

Higgins promised definitely to dispatch a personal emissary, and assured the writer he would grant Greater Boston every consideration in the liquidation of his huge empire, of which boat building is only a fraction of his manufactures. Others are: auto trailers, pre-fabricated houses, building materials, etc., for which he holds a total of $40,000,000 in contracts.

Boston's three-man unofficial mission to attempt to interest Higgins in New England and particularly Hingham as a location for his redistribution of his New Orleans factories accomplished its primary purpose, which was to bring Higgins, Sr., or one of his associates to the Hub.

The mission, which seemed forelorn when we flew to this city Sunday night, was successful.

Our little delegation, composed of Robert Thompson, president of the Hingham Ship Workers' Union; Richard Duca, union vice-president and the writer, spent the entire day with Higgins, Sr., and his son Frank, the latter general manager and vice-president of Higgins industries.

Both the elder Higgins and his son said unequivocally that they would, as soon as opportunity offered, send a visitation to Hingham.

Both repeated their determination to liquidate the enormous family-controlled enterprise which has run afoul of union domination and local business apathy. In fact, today's New Orleans papers carried full page advertisements offering units of the property for sale.

Except for a skeleton maintenance and guard force, the sprawling factories, so overwhelming in size that Hingham's shipyard could be placed almost unnoticed in one corner of the properties, are deserted.

It came as a welcome and hardly-hoped-for concession that the magnate finally agreed after [illegible] in which he played the cordial host, including dinner at his home, to make a thorough inspection of Hingham. For Boston is only one of several dozen civic applicants. From all over the nation, to bid for Higgins' favor.

These include Jacksonville, Fla., Omaha, Neb., Minneapolis, Fort Worth, Houston, Pensacola, Los Angeles, to mention only a few.

In fact, all during the day Mr. Higgins was interrupted, as we sat in his board room, where we showed him a technicolor movie of the Hingham property and discussed the advantages of Hingham and Boston as an industrial springboard, by frequent long distant calls from other civic boosters.

During the latter part of the afternoon, Frank Higgins, a stocky dark-haired man in his early 30s, drove us around the widely scattered Higgins kingdom, which in its expanse and multiplicity of interests had a humbling effect on our unimposing trio.

It was not until late evening that he rendered his decision to give Boston a personal opportunity to demonstrate that it had the qualifications he needed. For no single property now available is large enough to house all of Higgin's needs.

That Hingham will have a chance to share in the relocation of one or more of his interests is all that could be expected. It has that chance.

Whether, when Higgins' emissary makes his imminent visit, Massachusetts business can convince him that it is capable of meeting his reconversion needs, is for Massachusetts to demonstrate.

At least it is assured of the opportunity.

MRS. HELEN E. MURPHY AND SON, JOHN W., JR.
Wife and Son of Waltham Soldier Slain in Texas
INP by Harold Williams

Waltham GI Robbed, Slain In Texas

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Nov. 20—Robbery was advanced today as the probable motive in the murder of a young soldier, identified as Sgt. John W. Murphy, 23, of Moody st., Waltham, Mass. High Sheriff Walter "Doc" Shaw of nearby New Braunsfels said his officers, together with Texas Rangers, were concentrating their investigation in the night-life belt of this city, believing the soldier was robbed of some $90 during a visit. His body, with two bullet wounds in the chest, was found on a gravel road on ranchland of Sam Boerr in New Braunsfels, about 25 miles from here.

He had been dead 10 or 11 days when found Saturday, Sheriff Shaw stated.

Every possible clue to his identity in the form of personal papers, his military insignia, etc., had been torn from his uniform in an apparent effort to delay identification. Laundry marks on the clothing gave the first clue leading to identification.

There were no marks on the body consistent with a struggle, Sheriff Shaw said, indicating he had been quickly overpowered or ambushed and shot.

Sgt. Murphy was attached to Dodd Field, a part of Ft. Sam Houston. He was last seen on Nov. 6 and had done guard duty the previous day.

Sgt. John W. Murphy, of Moody st., Waltham, had "never been the same" since he contracted spinal meningitis while attending officers' training school last year, members of his family said today.

The family still has received no notification from the Army of his death, they said, and their first knowledge came last night in calls from newspapers.

His mother, Mrs. Marguerite G. Murphy was near collapse. Trying to console her were the young sergeant's wife, Mrs. Helen Murphy, and his brother, former Cpl. James Murphy, home only two days ago after five years in the Army, serving in Europe.

The young sergeant and his family moved to Waltham from Vanceboro, Me., and he was employed by the Waltham Watch Co. before enlisting three years ago. He was married to Helen E. Donnell, 22, of Lexington, and they have one child, John, Jr., 3.

Recopering from the attack of spinal meningitis, Sgt. Murphy was assigned to a military police battalion at Ft. Sam Houston, where he has been since.

Eva's Diary Calls Hitler Cold Lover

FRANKFURT, Germany, Nov 20 (AP)—Eva Braun contemplated suicide several times when Hitler was cold to her and found temporary new romantic interests, U. S. intelligence officers said today after an examination of her diary.

The diary gave the first intimate details of Hitler as a lover.

It was found by the American intelligence corps in Eva's treasure chest which contained also scores of pictures showing her, Hitler and a small girl.

The intelligence division has translated only a four-month period of the diary, from February to May, 1935, a time in which Eva described herself as "the mistress of Germany's and the world's greatest man."

British intelligence reports said she and Hitler finally were married last spring in the chancellery beneath the ruins of Berlin, and both committed suicide the following day.

The woman revealed herself as a gold digger, jealous and a sleeping tablet addict, according to the translators.

Even with Hitler was courting her, Eva wrote in her diary things were so bad financially that she was thinking of selling some of her clothes. On her 23rd birthday, Feb. 6, 1935, she wrote:

"It seems as though I'll never be rich."

Two months later, she wrote she had spent Easter alone and:

"I'm getting on everybody's nerves because I want to sell everything from clothes down to my photo camera and even theater tickets. Oh, well, things will improve. After all, my debts are not that big."

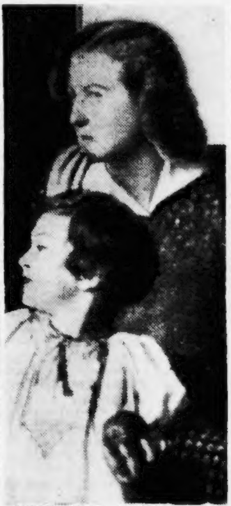
Eva pictured Hitler as crude in love making, a lover who never kept his promises, one who disappeared for weeks at a time, and who once in a while slipped her an envelope with money without saying a word.

In Eva's own words, Hitler "had so little understanding, and still makes me appear distant when his friends are around."

The diary disclosed Hitler's romance with Eva came near breaking up several times. Once, she wrote, they spent "a few wonderful hours together" and then he left without saying goodbye.

"I only wish I were seriously ill for at least eight days and would hear nothing of him," she wrote. "Why doesn't something happen to me? Why do I have to suffer like this? I wish I had never seen him. I am desperate. I am now going to buy some more sleeping tablets; at least then, I'll be half dazed and won't think about him so much. Why doesn't the devil come and get me? I am sure it is nocer there than here."

At another time, Eva wrote she stood for three hours outside the Carolton—a hotel—and "had to watch while Hitler bought glowers for Andra and invited her to supper."



APPLE FOR HITLER — Eva Braun and an unidentified girl, who holds an apple for Adolf Hitler, appear in this photo found by U. S. Intelligence officers in Eva's album.

The reference to "Ondra" was not otherwise explained.

"He is only using me for very definite purposes," Eva told her diary. "When he loves me, he takes it about as seriously as his promises, which he never keeps. Why does he torture me so much instead of just putting an end to the whole thing?"

Start of the romance evidently was in early 1935.

On Feb. 15 that year, she wrote:

"It seems as though the Berlin deal is coming off. I won't believe it until I am realy in the Reichschancellory. I hope it will be an agreeable affair.

"I don't dare look forward to it yet but it might turn out to be wonderful if everything goes well. Let's hope so-

"Yesterday he came to see me unexpectedly. It was a delightful evening . . . The nicest thing was, he is thinking of taking me out of the firm (Eva Braun worked for Heinrich Hoffman, Hitler's personal photographer) and buying me a little house. . . .

"It would be so wonderful . . . I wouldn't have to open the door to our 'honorable' customers and play salesgirl. Dear God, please make it come true . . . I am so infinitely happy he loves me, so I pray it will always be like this."

They are expected in London tomorrow, to be joined by Gov. Tobin and other committee members on Sunday.

Expel 92 Students In Patriotic Strike

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 20 (AP)—The Los Angeles board of education ordered 92 junior high school students expelled as the outgrowth of a demonstration Nov. 2 when they protested a permit for Gerald L. K. Smith to speak in a school auditorium.

The 92, all students of Rollenbeck Junior High, were among some 550 who left classes.

Most of the students signed a pledge they would not again leave their classes for such a purpose, but the 92 refused to sign. Expulsions will remain in effect until pledges have been signed.

Chief Justice John P. Higgins in superior court today served notice on gunmen they could expect no sympathy as he imposed a 10-to-12-year State Prison term on Joseph M. Collins, 24, of Wilmington for armed robbery and assault with intent to murder.

"Let this be a warning to all gunmen," the judge declared.

Collins was charged with armed robbery of a Charlestown liquor store and with attacking Nicholas Palumbo of Florence st., Somerville, who was in the store.

B-29 Sets New Mark, 8198 Miles in 35 Hours

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20 (AP)—An Army Superfortress landed here today after a record-breaking 8198 non-stop flight from Guam. The B-29, in the air 35 hours and five minutes, had about 300 gallons of gasoline left, enough for another 90 minutes.

Clarence S. Irvine, of St. Paul, Neb., one of the two pilots of the double crew, said they ran into seven storm fronts during the flight.

The big plane flew from a point somewhat west of Seattle to Washington on three engines as Irvine discovered he could save fuel by cutting out the fourth engine as he neared the last leg of the long hop.

The flight exceeded by approximately 1000 miles the previous record of 7158 set by two British planes in 1938 on a non-stop flight from Egypt to Australia.

The big bomber, staggering under a load of 11,110 gallons of gasoline at the take-off, flew for the first five hours at an altitude of only 50 feet. Irvine said that the Guam runway from which they took off was 8500 feet long and "we just came out even at the end.

The original plan called for altitudes of 15,000 to 20,000 feet but the trip was made at heights not exceeding 12,000.

Gen. H. H. Arnold, chief of AAF, greeted the crew. As they climbed from the plane he pinned the Distinguished Flying Cross on each flier.

Legion Roars Tribute to IKE

By JAMES F. McENANEY

CHICAGO, Nov. 20—General of the Army Wwight D. Eisenhower, grinning appreciatively one minute and misty-eyed the next, was given a roaring welcome at the American Legion convention today, a demonstration that matched any of the rafter-ringers of the Coliseum's history.

The delegates, more composed at the opening session yesterday, took "Ike" to their hearts with stirring affection.

He was presented the Legion's Distinguished Service Medal by National Com. Edward N. Scheiberling, who told the convention that Mrs. Eisenhower, ill in Boone, Ia., was improving. Another cheer roared forth.

Ike brushed away a tear and said, "If she hadn't been I couldn't have come."

National Comdr. Scheiberling told the five-starred general in presenting the medal, "No man ever merited this distinction more than you have."

Ike replied: "If my three and one half years commanding on foreign soil has done anything for me it is to intensify the undying love that I and they (his men) hold for this country.

"I like to think you are using me as a medium to honor 3,000,000 American soldiers who did their best for you and America in Europe."

Scheiberling read to the convention a telegram from President Truman, which said:

"It has come to my attention that some doubt has arisen among delegates to the American Legion convention with respect to my views on a universal training program. My message to Congress sets forth my views on this subject. I hope the Legion will not think there has been any departure therefrom."

The President recommended to Congress a one-year military training program. Military training is under debate at the convention but the Legion has favored it in principle for years.

Lt. Gen. Joseph Pierre Koenig, commander-in-chief of the French zone of occupied Germany, and formerly one of Eisenhower's top Allied commanders, warmly greeted Ike, as did Gen. Omar Bradley.

Koenig presented the French Legion of Honor to Comdr. Scheiberling and carried out the traditional two-cheek kiss.

The convention's resolutions committee went on record as favoring the Veterans' Administration as the exclusive releasing agency for all surplus war property, instead of the Small War Plants Corp. The resolution endorsed a policy advocated by the Hearst papers, giving civilian bidders second choice on surplus properties.

Little Mary Frances Stinson, 7, who has had quite a bewildering time during a two-year battle for her custody, is going to remain at the Stevens st., Stoneham, home of her aunt, Mrs. Anna Meegan, the only mother she ever has known.

The final chapter of the case, heard by the Supreme Court and the Middlesex Probate Court twice in recent years, came today when Judge George M. Poland ruled in Middlesex court that Mary can go right on calling her aunt "Mama."

Mary never has left her aunt's care, despite the long fight during which the Supreme Court considered a decision by Judge John C. Leggat which gave the child to Mrs. Meegan.

Mary's father, Edward J. Stinson of Chase st., Dorchester, had sought to bring the child to Dorchester to live. He had remarried and felt her proper place was with her new foster mother. The youngster's mother died at her birth and she had been taken by the latter's sister, Mrs. Meegan.

The Supreme Court ruled the case could be heard all over again and Stinson renewed his fight.

Judge Poland, in making the same finding as Judge Leggat, declared that Mary had always known Mrs. Meegan as her mother and that any transplanting of her life now would be emotionally unwise.

WET GOING—Heavy surf at Houghs Neck put most of Sea st. under two to three feet of water today, tieing up traffic and causing many cellars to be flooded. Here a truck tries to get through.
INP by William DeLargy

12-Ft. Tide Here Maroons Hundreds

Sweeping across highways along the North and South Shores a 12-foot tide, highest of the season, marooned hundreds of residents and disrupted traffic for hours today.

The Hough's Neck section of Quincy was hardest hit, with more than two feet of water covering Sea st. and Manet ave., flooding cellars and leaving householders stranded.

Homes along Sea st., Rock Island rd. and Edgewater dr. were splashed by the thunderous surf which was whipped up by a strong northwest wind reaching at times a velocity of 30 miles an hour.

Trolley service to Hough's Neck ended at Palmer st., when water and debris filled the streets. Also stranded were more than 50 automobiles.

At Winthrop, the heavy surf covered Winthrop pkwy., and traffic was rerouted along inland roads. Water filled cellars and backyards along Pearl ave. and Beachmont rd.

Pounding seas also battered other coastal points, including Hampton Beach, N. H., Salisbury and Seabrook. Many summer homes were reported damaged by the mountainous breakers.

The weather bureau predicted "clearing and much colder" for Greater Boston tonight with the mercury dipping to about 28 degrees before dawn. The highest Wednesday is expected to be about 35 degrees, with clear, sunny skies.

Hub Teems With Turkey And Fixin's

For the first time in five years, Boston's famed Faneuil Hall Market district is crammed with all the traditional fixings that go with Thanksgiving.

From every stall hang quantities of plump turkeys, counters are piled high with chickens, and the fruit and vegetable booths are filled with many exotic items as well as the more prosaic squash, onions and sweet potatoes considered indispensable to a turkey dinner.

Also fresh pork, which has been long absent, has reappeared and is selling at ceiling prices of 25 cents a pound for ribs and 40 cents a pound for the fancier cuts with tenderloins left in.

Other hard-to-get items which have returned to market are veal chops, which sell for 48 cents a pound, and even luscious tender hams weighing around 10 pounds each, selling for 40 cents a pound.

Persimmons, pomegranates, quinces, kumquats, fresh pineapples, giant mushrooms, chestnuts and artichokes were some of the fancier items on display, but lettuce was extremely scarce.

Although vegetables were plentiful, prices are still high; sweet potatoes, 8 cents a pound; squash from 5 to 8 cents a pound, brussels sprouts, 33 a box; onions, 13 a pound; celery, 35 a bunch, and broccoli, 40 a bunch.

Helen Keller Inspires Vets On Visit to Lovell Hospital

FORT DEVENS, Nov. 20 (AP)—Miss Helen Keller, who rose above the handicaps of deafness and blindness, won the admiration of wounded soldiers when she visited Lovell General Hospital today.

Her swift fingers touched faces "to see what you look like." She is on a two-day visit here.

With her companion, Miss Polly Thompson, and WAC Lt. Patience Sanderson she found PFC Jack Willen of Framingham, restoring hurt hands by making a doll. She touched the doll and Jack's face and laughed as she said, "What nice wavy hair."

She thanked Pvt. Martin Sullaway of Salem for helping liberate France, and told M-Sgt. Clarence Smith of Lodie, Wis., she hoped he would be home for Christmas.

T-4 Robert Galvin of Hyde Park was embarrassed when she came to him. He hadn't been able to shave.

The seeing fingers found his face.

"This lawn needs to be mowed," Miss Keller said.

After she had passed he said to the boy in the next bed:

"Wasn't it a privilege? There's an example of what determination can do."

GM's Answer To Arbitration Offer by Friday

By Associated Press

General Motors Corp. in Detroit today informed the CIO United Automobile Workers' Union that it will reply to the union proposal for arbitration of the 30 per cent wage increase "on or before Friday, Nov. 23."

The other main trouble spot was in Chicago, while across the country some 150 labor disputes kept idle about 275,000 workers.

The strike of 8700 telephone operators crippled long-distance service in Chicago and paralyzed service in manual switchboards in 115 communities in Illinois and two Indiana counties. A union official in New York said long lines operators throughout the country have refused to handle calls to and from Chicago.

A conciliation conference, arranged by federal officials after start of the strike Monday morning in a dispute over wages, failed. The Illinois Telephone Traffic Union is asking a $6 weekly boost, having rejected a War Labor Board award of $4.

Pacific Vets Get Plane Priorities

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20 (AP)—The government today ordered all airlines operating eastbound flights from the West Coast to allot 70 per cent of their space to Army and Navy personnel returning from the Pacific. The order is effective Dec. 3.

The action was taken by the Office of Defense Transportation, which said it was necessary because of "heavy arrivals of returning servicemen at West Coast ports."

Link Stegeman, Pal To 5 More Holdups

Arthur Stegeman, 27, and James Bergen, 30, Jamaica Plain suspects in more than a score of recent Greater Boston holdups, were linked for the first time today with the $4000 payroll robbery at Gentile's Bakery, Mattapan, last Oct. 25 when witnesses identified them in police headquarters lineup.

The pair, trapped last Friday in a Trumbull, Ct., hideaway almost two weeks after their alleged accomplice, James T. Kerrigan, also of Jamaica Plain, was arrested at gunpoint in Providence, R. I., were to face court later in the day.

"I've seen him before," said James Donnelly of Mildred ave., Mattapan, pointing to Bergen in the lineup. "It was at Gentile's Bakery on the day of the holdup. He had a gun in his hand. He was there, too (pointing to Stegeman). He stood at the outside door."

Stephen J. Fleming of Halborne st., Mattapan, said Bergen had a gun in his hand, pulled a phone from the wall and "grabbed the money."

Gladys Ford, employe of a Harvard st., Brookline, music shop, who previously had picked Kerrigan as being involved in a holdup there in September, pointed to Bergen today as an accomplice.

Saul Soboff, part owner of a North Washington st. upholstery shop, identified Stegeman as one of two men who took $3000 and a diamond ring in a September holdup.

Burglar Tools, Guns Accuse 6

A Suffolk Superior courtroom had the appearance today of arsenal and welding shop as rightful owners claimed acetylene tanks, torches, hose, tools, guns and ammunition, allegedly used by six defendants in safe breaks during Boston's recent crime wave.

George MacKenzie, watchman at the Brighton plant of the Pepsi-Cola plant, described how he was trussed up when that company was robbed, but was unable to identify any of the six men.

The six on trial are Joseph Keyes, 38, of Topliff st., Dorchester; John Eppich, 32, of Norwood; Edward McAleney, 32, of Dorchester; Frank Feeney, 28, of Jamaica Plain; William Galagher, 27, of Philadelphia, and Edward Rasmussen, 45, of Dorchester.

Girl at Trial Tells Of Holdup Boast

A 22-year-old Waltham girl, mother of two children, took the stand in Middlesex Superior Court today in the trial of two men on armed robbery charges and testified that one of them boasted to her of "pulling the job."

Mrs. Mildred T. Lee of Charles ave., Waltham, told Judge Abraham E. Pinanski and jury that George E. Hayes, 28, of Main st., Waltham, showed her the newspaper story about the $700 robbery of the Stuart Liquor Mart, Waltham, Sept. 29.

"He pointed to the story and said 'that's the job we pulled' and showed me $200 which he said was his 'split,' Mrs. Lee testified.

On trial with Hayes is Michael J. Binkiewicz, 29, of Grove st., West End, both charged with armed robbery and two counts of assault with intent to rob.

Mrs. Lee was brought to court from ast Cambridge jail where she is held in lieu of $3000 bond after pleading guilty to charges of breaking and entering homes in Greater Boston.

Gales Hit Vet Ship, Says Quincy Skipper

NEW YORK, Nov. 20 (AP)—The troopship James B. Richardson, carrying 617 high point Fifth Army veterans, arrived today in New York harbor after a stormy 19-day voyage from Naples.

Capt. James R. Bennett of 76 Pontiac rd., Quincy, Mass., skipper, said: "We had more gales than I have encountered on any one voyage during the past 10 years."

3829 GIs Are Stranded; Ship Here Day Too Soon

The Army got its signals crossed today and left almost 4000 cold and griping GI's high and dry aboard the Army transport Thomas Barry at Commonwealth Pier when it hadn't been expected before tomorrow. Army authorities at the Pier insisted the vessel was not due before 7:30 a. m. tomorrow while officers aboard the transport were equally insistent they had messaged ahead that they would reach port at 10 a. m. today.

Army officials said the transport had been expected to be delayed by the storm, but instead, had ridden it out. Tehey said there was no substance to reports the delay in landing was due to labor trouble.

While the arguing wos going on, the 3819 GIs and a few scattered civilians aboard waited. They were hungry, having last eaten before down and not due for another meal until they reached Camp Myles Standish. They were cold, too. The biggest problem was to obtain trains to take them to Myles Standish.

Meanwhile more than 4000 soldiers arrived aboard four other transports docking at Commonwealth Pier and the Army Base.

Included among the 578 passengers aboard the George M. Bibb, which carried 40 New Englanders, was Capt. Robert Stuart of Beacon st., Danvers, better known as "Bob" Stuart, star halfback of Harvard's 1936 football team.

Stuart served as company commander with the 255th Infantry and hopes to see a football game this week-end.

At the same time the S. S. Wooster Victory arrived with 1940 troops, 96 New Englanders, while 27 more were ferried from the S. S. Henry H. Richardson, anchored off Castle Island.

Another 1944 men reached here on the S. S. Montclair Victory, which included 124 New England soldiers among its returnees.

Among those on the Montclair Victory were eight WACs, including Cpl. Peace Collare of Elliot st., Worcester, who served overseas with headquarters of the Ninth Air Force. Others on board were CWO Forest Prince of Westfield and S-Sgt. Bertram Vonszhoppe of Watertown.

Vet's Family Ordered to Vacate Devens Home

INP by Edwin Stephan

Harold Morrison

A disabled Air Forces veteran, his wife and two small daughters in federal court today were ordered evicted from a government housing area at Ft. Devens, despite their pleas the shortage made it impossible to find quarters.

Judge Charles E. Wyzanski, Jr., regretfully issued the order, pointing out he had no choice, after the veteran, Harold Morrison, despairingly told of his long search for civilian living quarters and of the frequent rebuffs he had met because of his two daughters, Catherine, 3, and Patricia, 21 months.

"What can I do?" he asked. "Everyone seems to be against us."

"The matter before me is simply a question of law," Judge Wyzanski told him, "and under the law I must issue the order."

But it was indicated Uncle Sam is not too hard-hearted a landlord and that the desperate young couple would not be evicted forthwith, although the order calls for immediate vacating of the premises in Willard st., Devenscroft, Ayer.

Morrison leased the place Jan. 1, 1944, while still in the Air Force, from which he was discharged in May, 1944, for disability. He was notified Sept. 1, 1944, that he must vacate and since then has been engaged in futile search for a new home.

$25,000 Blaze Sweeps Building in Winchester

Handicapped by high winds, firemen of the Winchester, Woburn and Arlington departments battled a $25,000 general alarm fire in the Waterfield building, Church and Common sts., Winchester, today, risking their lives to fight it on the second floor under a cracking slate roof.

Flames destroyed the interior of the structure for a quarter of its length.

Police with ambulances stood by as firemen groped their way up a smoke-filled stairway in an effort to save part of the block-long two-story wooden building. The roof, cracking in the middle, caused an extension ladder against one wall to topple.

Arlington firemen, working nearby, were forced to jump for safety.

The fire gained early headway at the end of the building near the railroad station, where stocks of paper in the Winslow Press increased its intensity.

The building was believed to have been unoccupied on the second floor, where the Fortnightly Club, a woman's civic organization, had headquarters. Tenants of business establishments on the first floor fled, saving what they could.

In addition to the printing company, the structure housed the Winchester Beauty Shop, the real estate office of H. L. Fessenden, Wakefield Battery & Tire Co., Lord's Photo Service, Western Union, Waterfield Opticians and the optical and jewelry shop of E. H. Butterworth.

Marsh Opposes Peace Training

President Daniel L. Marsh of Boston University voiced his opposition today to compulsory universal military training in the United States as a program opposed to the "American Way."

Speaking at a Thanksgiving convocation of faculty, students and alumni at Trinty Church, President Marsh declared that peacetime military training of a compulsory nature never had been undertaken in the nation's history, despite efforts of military men.

"Professional military and naval men are not good guides in matters of this sort," he said. "To ask a professional soldier whether we should have universal military training is as sensible as asking a Latin professor whether he thinks the study of Latin is a good thing, or asking a rabbit, if the whole garden should be devoted to carrots."

During the convocation President Marsh announced the University would have a memorial to its World War II veterans, both living and dead. Although the exact form of memorial has not been decided, he said it would be dignified, useful and permanent.

Representatives of Chelsea, Worcester, Somerville, Plympton, Sharon and Revere also were among those protesting.

City Solicitor John F. Donovan of Chelsea and Harold L. Woodman of Revere were among a number who advocated consideration be given drivers who have operated safely for 10 years.

Woodman said it was unfair for a Revere driver who had never had an accident in 10 years to pay $46.10 while some fellow in the Berkshire pays only $15.30 no matter how many accidents he has.

Among others who disagreed with the tentative rates, under which increases have been assessed former holders of A and B gasoline cards and decreases given those with C cards, were Mayor Sullivan of Chelsea, Mayor Bradley of Somerville and Atty. Henry T. George of Worcester.

Supporting the proposed rates and declaring they should be even higher was Judge Frederick Chase, representing all stock insurance companies handling compulsory automobile insurance in this State.

"I'M SORRY, SIR, BUT I'LL HAVE TO CHARGE YOU MORE IF YOU HAVE MORE!"
$2.00

How much can you pay?

What would you think if the clerk at your favorite store asked to see what you had in your wallet before he decided what to charge you for a shirt?—

> Or if, just because you happened to have some money saved up, you were asked to pay more than other people for a haircut, a movie ticket, or even such important items as rent, food and clothing.

That's exactly the kind of reasoning UAW-CIO leaders are using in their wage demands on General Motors—

> They point to funds we have saved up over the years to expand and improve our plants and provide more jobs and more production. They say, "Give us that in higher wages."

General Motors does not go along with that kind of reasoning. People should not have to pay more just because they have a savings account—

> For many years we have used our savings to expand capacity, create more jobs and provide greater values.

And we intend to keep on doing just that. We are, at present, embarked on a very important reconversion and postwar expansion program. Our objective, now as always—to produce more and better things for more people.

For example...a twelve pound whole turkey at 52c per pound costs $6.24 and weighs a little less than 10 pounds after being cleaned.

A half-turkey weighing 10 pounds (all drawn and ready to cook) costs $5.50...there is more meat on a drawn half-turkey weighing 10 pounds than there is on a whole turkey weighing 12 pounds.

Make sufficient of your favorite stuffing, prepare your giblets in the usual manner. Mound the stuffing in the roasting pan and press the turkey firmly over it with the cutside down. Roast as you would a whole turkey...baste as usual.

This Is My Story ★ ★ By Gen. Jonathan Wainwright

Copyright, 1945, King Features Syndicate, Inc. Reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited.

(Gen. Wainwright today tells, in his 39th chapter, of his last days in captivity and the reaction of himself and his men to the startling word that they were free.)

I had no notion where our group of senior officers was being taken on the morning of Dec. 1, 1944, when we placed Maj. Gen. Edward P. King's litter on the backs of the hard railroad car benches at Sheng Tai Tun and began to speculate on what was in the Red Cross packages that lay so temptingly close to us.

We discovered our destination at the end of a long, cold ride when the train pulled into the Manchurian village of Sian. We were taken to our new prison camp, which lay beyond that quaint old Manchurian settlement.

Our train had been frigid despite the way in which we huddled together for warmth. But compared to the temperature in Sian it was a hotbox. Again we got the shakes and were glad to reach our prison, a long, one-story building set on a hill above a frozen barracks yards. Officers and men, as well as Jap guards, shared the building. The place was equipped for steam heat, but the pipes were as cold as we for the first 24 hours.

Here at Sian we found our most inquisitive camp commander. He was a first lieutenant named Marui and never a day passed that he did not come into my room and make a thorough inspection of my clothes and baggage while I stood at attention.

Lt. Marui treated our men as cruelly as they had been treated anywhere else, including Karenko.

Rice Diet Ends

The food was bad at Sian, but at least we were done with our rice diets. We would have cornmeal mush for breakfast, thick gruel for lunch, vegetables and a kind of soya curd for dinner—and whenever some senior Jap officer or important civilian visited the camp we were served white bread.

Each man was allowed to have one of his American Red Cross packages the day after we arrived. But two days later we were ordered to give back what we had not used, and thereafter the Japs parceled supplies out to us in the tiniest portions possible.

I spent my third Christmas in captivity at this Sian camp. Next to the one at Karenko it was the worst.

The Japs announced a day or two before, that Lt. Marui was "pleased" to tell us he would give us one egg each and would send five chickens to the 34 officers in our group. But we were also led to understand he would give us at least one of our Red Cross packages for Christmas, to round out what threatened to be an insufficient fare. With that in mind we more or less contentedly went about decorating our quarters with what scraps of colored paper we could find and some greenery we were able to break off the frozen trees. The spirit of Christmas does not die easily in a Christian.

Instead of a package for each of us- which would have meant a bit of meat, milk, cigarets and candy—we were given a small portion of our canned butter, cheese and jam, and told that because of this the future deliveries of our supplies would have to be reduced.

Two fine boys, PFC Lloyd L. Kelly, U. S. A, and Pvt. Johnny Kroeze, Netherlands East Indies Army, endeared themselves to me for life, and made my remaining months at Sian more livable, when they came into my room on Jan. 1, 1945, bearing a chair they had ingeniously made out of a folding American cot.

I hardly know of anything they could have done for me that would have been nicer.

Air Raid Drills

A new loneliness crept in on us as the endless winter continued. All our mail was cut off and we were permitted to hear no official news as to progress of the war.

We did notice, however, the number of air raid drills increased and more often than not, at night, we were told to draw our blackout curtains. We had no way of knowing for certain, but reasoned that on more than one occasion these exercises were more than mere drills, though we heard no planes or bombs. We ached for some such harbinger.

It was still freezing at Sian on March 21, but the Japs methodically ordered us to turn in the warm clothing they had issued, and shut off the heat—for this was the first day of spring. By April 3, when it was 16 degrees above zero, we all had heavy colds or influenza. The Japs then made a concession and turned the heat back on for an hour in the morning and an hour in the evening. But this stopped a week later.

I concluded the war could never end until we landed a strong force on Japan proper—about the end of 1946

You can well imagine my incredulity, therefore, when on the evening of Aug. 18 Cpl. Willard tapped on my door and stuck his head in.

"I congratulate you, General," he said.

"Really? Upon what?" I asked, wholly unprepared.

"The war is over," he said.

Just like that.

I could not get up from my chair, but I could talk.

"I don't believe it," I told him.

"It must be," he insisted. "The interpreter just told me Russian troops have entered Manchuria. The interpreter says that did it . . . it's over."

After a bit I got up and walked across the hall to Maj. Gen. George F. Moore's room, and for a long time we talked about the fantastic report. It was something too incredibly wonderful to be true, we decided. I did not sleep a wink that night.

The next morning at roll call Lt. Marui assembled the officers, civilians and enlisted men in a large room in the barracks, formed us in line and read aloud for several minutes from a prepared script.

Then he nodded to the interpreter.

The interpreter cleared his throat, looked at us seriously and began:

"By order of the Emperor the war has now been amicably terminated . . ."

We roared suddenly with laughter . . . roared until the rest of his words were blotted out. There was no stopping the laughter. It came up in me, and in the others, with an irresistible force; something born of a combination of our relief, the look on the Jap's face, the preposterousness of his beginning, the release from years of tension, the utter joy over having survived to see this blessed day.

(TOMORROW: Even liberation has its headaches.)

Electronics Doom Of Bread Mold

NEW YORK, Nov. 20 (AP)—Bread mold, which has plagued bakers and housewives for centuries, is on the way out, doomed by electronics.

By using high frequency heat waves, Dr. William Cathcart, 34-year-old food scientist, has found that the mold spores which ruin millions of pounds of bread each year can be killed. Bread thus treated was free of mold a month after baking.

Dr. Cathcart used an electronic "oven," to treat the bread.

High frequency heat waves penetrated loaves placed between two electrodes. Dr. Cathcart found electronic heat of 140 degrees applied to a loaf for five seconds would eliminate the spores without damaging texture or food value.

Equipment is now being built which can be attached to a bread wrapping machine and which will pass the wrapped bread through an electronic oven on a moving belt.

Tobin Approves Soldiers' Tomb

Gov. Tobin today gave his unqualified approval to the plan for erection of a memorial in Washington honoring Americans who made the supreme sacrifice in World War II.

Similar in idea to the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Washington, the memorial in honor of the martyred dead of both the European and Pacific war theaters, was suggested editorially by the Record-American-Sunday Advertiser and other Hearst newspapers.

"I think it is entirely fitting," said Gov. Tobin, "that our nation erect a memorial to the nearly 300,000 Americans who gave their lives in World War II for the sake of preserving the ideals of liberty and justice.

"I think it is fitting that such a memorial be erected in the form of a Tomb to the Unknown Warriors, one from the European theater of operations and the other from the Pacific war.

"The Hearst papers may be assured that as governor of Massachusetts I shall be glad to do all in my power to support this very timely, very worthy and very inspiring project."

Vets' Friend

By JAMES F. McENANEY

Q—My son has been in the Army since March, 1943. He has never had a furlough and we have never seen him in uniform. Immediately following his basic training, he was shipped overseas (Pacific) and now is stationed in Japan. He wrote recently that he has filled out a slip seeking T. D. in the U. S. Can I do anything to get him here and also what does T. D. mean in Army terms? J. G., Boston.

A—Your son is apparently seeking Temporary Duty (T. D.) assignment in this country, which would permit him to return home on a furlough if commanding officer approves request. He should have collected sufficient points to return under present scale. There is not much you can do. I feel sure he will be en route home within a short time.

Q—I was recently given an honorable discharge from the Army for convenience of that branch of service and re-enlisted. At the time I received my mustering-out pay. I am told that I have a bonus from the state coming. Am I eligible to apply for that at once or must I wait until I serve my re-enlistment hitch in Regular Army? N. C. W., Lynn.

A—You may apply for the state bonus immediately by presentation of discharge recently handed you.

Q—Would you please tell me where I might obtain honorable discharge button? Was released from service in 1943, prior to issuance. B. D., Newmarket, N. H.

A—May be procured by presentation of your discharge at nearest Army post or recruiting office in your section. Would suggest Ft. Constitution as nearest your community.

Q—When computing points for a Navy man, do you figure up until September, 1945, like the Army, or is each following month added to score? E. D., Chelsea

A—Points added month to month, unlike system followed by Army.

Q—My brother is in the 6th Marine Div. Could you tell me if they are coming home around Christmas? G. R., Dorchester.

A—As you probably know, part of that division is at present stationed in Northern China where considerable trouble exists among the two Chinese factions, and Marines are standing by. No information on expected return, Marine Corps states.

Free meeting places have been provided by the Boston School Committee, in co-operation with the Record-American and Sunday Advertiser, at 14 school centers in the city where ex-servicemen can meet their former buddies, discuss organization plans and check on jobs. Information about these centers can be obtained by telephoning Dept. Extended Use of Public School, Cap. 5500, or inquiring at 15 Beacon st.

More Socialist Sophistry

PRIME MINISTER ATTLEE has delivered his carefully prepared speech in defense of Socialism before the two houses of the Congress of the United States.

He denied, for the record, that "Socialists are out to destroy freedom, freedom of the individual, freedom of speech, freedom of religion and freedom of the press."

"The Labor Party," he continued, "is in the tradition of freedom-loving movements which have always existed in our country . . .

"We in the Labor Party declare that we are in line with those who fought for Magna Carta and Habeas Corpus, with the Pilgrim Fathers and with the Declaration of Independence."

The words are all excellent. But politicians cannot be wisely judged by words.

Their deeds are more important.

British Prime Minister Attlee told the American Congress what kind of deeds to expect in England.

"You will see us," he said, "embarking on projects of nationalization, on wide, all-embracing schemes of social insurance . . .

"We shall be working out a PLANNED ECONOMY."

A planned economy is in itself a denial of freedom.

The nationalization of industry means the abolition of FREEDOM OF ENTERPRISE, and how can other freedoms survive in a nation where enterprise is not free?

The nationalization of industry substitutes BUREAUCRACY for private management and individual effort.

It substitutes MONOPOLY for COMPETITION.

It substitutes REGIMENTATION and COMPULSION for FREEDOM OF CHOICE and DECISION.

It confiscates PRIVATE PROPERTY, it deprives the people of opportunities to achieve and to progress, and consequently it DESTROYS INCENTIVE.

Prime Minister Attlee spoke of "wide, ALL-EMBRACING schemes of social insurance"—In other words, the Beveridge Plan of "Cradle-to-the-Grave" security and of rigidly controlled "full employment."

Under the Beveridge Plan, every worker in England will work where the government tells him to work, at whatever wages the government permits him to have.

Under the Beveridge Plan, every employer will produce what the government orders him to produce, at prices which the government will ordain.

That is what a "planned economy" requires. That is what the British Labor Party contemplates.

Of course, an "economy" of this kind can be made to "work."

It "worked" in Nazi Germany.

And it is "working" in Communist Russia now.

But there was no "Magna Carta" in Hitler's Reich.

And there is no "Habeas Corpus" in Stalin's Russia today.

AIR FREIGHT

NINETY-TWO pieces of bedroom furniture, weighing more than seven thousand pounds, have been flown from North Carolina to Providence and Worcester.

It was the first air freight shipment of its kind.

Soon millions of pieces of furniture and other articles will be similarly transported—safely, cheaply and rapidly.

This should interest Boston and other slow-moving cities which have delayed the construction of adequate airports.

It should also interest railroads which have clung to obsolete equipment and failed to advance with the progress in invention.

Aerial transportation is here to stay.

Older forms of transportation should realize that, and promptly devise ingenious ways and means of competing with it.

SNAPPY AND sunny days are great for a long walk. But my dog is still in the country. I miss him. On such fine days he looks out of the window in the morning and then turns his shining eager face toward me as much as to say: "Some day, what? Let's get going on that walk. There will probably be a lot of squirrels running around the park." If my dog goes to the country next fall I'm going with him.

WAY TO MAN'S HEART: Gypsy Rose Lee, at present between marriages, has had two husbands so far. Both preferred to eat in restaurants. Gypsy is now looking for a husband who likes to eat at home. She believes the chances of a happy marriage are much better than with a restaurant gadabout. Miss Lee, a brilliant cook, is at work on a book on the culinary art which will be titled "The Way to a Man's Heart." It will deal with dishes that men like. Also will reveal how to persuade males to eat things they don't like but are good for them. Miss Lee has just completed Chapter 14, headed: "Why Be Baffled by Bouilabaisse?" and is starting on Chapter 15, headed: "How to Make Spinach Attractive."

DISCUSSING the matter of who is America's champion commuter, a New Yorker says: "A man working in our office in New York city lives outside of Camden, N. J. First he takes a bus to Camden, where he transfers to a bus for Philadelphia. At Philadelphia he takes the train to New York. From the Penn station he takes the subway to the office. At night he makes the return trip. He travels about 100 miles each way. Has been doing this daily, except Sunday, for 17 years. Incidentally, he weighs 300 pounds. His commuting schedule may be tough but it hasn't caused him to lose any weight."

OVER THERE: A U. S. Army sergeant in Belgium has this column mailed to him regularly. Some Belgian girls expressed interest in what he was reading, so he gave them the clippings. He adds: "The great ambition of many Belgian girls is to get a G. I. Joe for a husband and be taken to the United States. These Belgian cuties who have been reading your column have been trying that Mules & Men advice on some of the boys. The funny thing about it is that it seems to be working. The number of G. I. Joes marrying Belgian women has recently increased."

This opus, featuring Dame May Whitty and Eva Le Gallienne, is an extremely interesting and brilliantly acted play. Don't leave it off your playgoing schedule.

A NEW APPROACH

By ARTHUR KROCK

(Reprinted from the New York Times of Nov. 8, 1945)

WASHINGTON—In making his survey of the economic and social conditions of Massachusetts, as chairman of a committee created by an act of the State Legislature, Joseph P. Kennedy has been urging one particular approach to solution of problems which has attracted much local attention, and, having already produced excellent results, is likely to be noted more widely.

Hon. Joseph P. Kennedy

He has counseled the citizens of his native State to attack unsatisfactory situations on a community basis instead of looking to the Commonwealth and to Washington for all remedies.

Mr. Kennedy has adopted his own advice successfully in dealing with immediate industrial problems at Salem and Framingham, and the City of Lawrence has performed a similar service for itself.

The general thesis of the former Ambassador to Great Britain is that, if communities will tackle their troubles at first hand they will find the situation can be localized and locally adjusted in many instances.

But there must be in the communities, he has told audiences throughout Massachusetts, civic spirit, elements (such as newspapers, banks, business and labor leaders and successful citizens) with a sense of responsibility and local patriotism, and above this there must be realization of the new social and economic facts of American Life.

* * *

TO VARIOUS CITIES in Massachusetts Mr. Kennedy has commented, without favor, on the fact they have newspapers without the competition he considers generally helpful to a community; banks with too dominant an influence; rich men without an awakened sense of their communal duty; and labor leaders who are not thinking in community terms where a single industry furnishes a living to the entire population.

He has counseled these cities to remedy their conditions by a local approach and a local pride that in early days had much to do with their establishment and growth.

IF THESE THINGS ARE DONE, THE EX-AMBASSADOR HAS BEEN SAYING, IT WILL BE SURPRISING HOW MANY PROBLEMS CAN BE DISPOSED OF WITHOUT APPEAL TO THE STATE HOUSE, THE WHITE HOUSE AND THE CAPITOL IN WASHINGTON.

While on his tour Mr. Kennedy has expressed his own platform for the postwar era. Its cheerful basis will surprise some persons who have heard him over the years in gloomy prophecy of the future.

And its advocacy of the position that workers are entitled to a larger share of the national income will surprise others.

He has also asserted to numerous groups in Massachusetts that a national income of $130,000,000,000 is not only necessary but feasible; that no likely act of government or the free enterprise structure can produce inflation if people are put back to produce; that production is everybody's principal business; that every move should be tested on this objective, and, if it is found, the rest doesn't matter much; that industry's profits have been far too large; and that finding jobs for returning veterans should be at the top of every list.

* * *

WHEN THE ex-Ambassador completes his survey, which has taken on some of the color of a crusade, the plan of the Massachusetts interests that drafted his services is to establish a State Department of Commerce. He is to draw up a plan for this, and his report will give the reasons as well.

Already other States are bestirring themselves for similar inspections of their assets and liabilities in the hope of getting formulae to solve difficulties which have beset them also—some like the industrial problems of Massachusetts, some of a different nature.

* * *

HIS CHEERFUL approach to grave issues while so many others are despondent deserves additional notice. It demonstrates anew what those who know the ex-Ambassador best have often observed—that he is a sort of Mark Tapley. Mark, it will be recalled, displayed his basic optimism only when things were going very badly. As he explained to Martin Chuzzlewit, that was the time to be cheerful and the best—because it appeared to be the only—way to overcome what was going wrong.

Mr. Kennedy's optimism has a stronger basis, and he has qualified it by saying it must be sustained by the actions he advises if pessimism is not to prove itself by disastrous events. But he feels sure this can be done, and that is a hopeful viewpoint.

Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 20—Stopped by Monogram to see "Sunbonnet Sue" and such happenings at this small studio. Expected any minute to see sky rockets going up there was so much excitement. The new president, Steve Broidy, had signed Roy Del Ruth, one of Hollywood's top flight directors, to produce and direct three pictures the next two years, starting March 1.

Ann Sothern

Each Del Ruth picture is budgeted at a million dollars. That's big money for this little studio, which has heretofore made its product on a shoestring. But we remember when Columbia was in fledgling clothes and just kicking loose; also when Republic was looked on as a minor studio. So I guess we will soon be getting ready to welcome Monogram into the major league, and here's wishing them good luck!

* * *

THE NEXT "Maisie" story is going to have a race-track background and a lot of thoroughbreds. Well, I don't know anyone better qualified than L. B. Mayer to make a picture with race horses. He's had a lot of winners and since Vincent X. Flaherty wrote that Busher received more mail than any of the stars, maybe Busher will be in the picture with the star, Ann Sothern. I'll bet Ann wouldn't mind co-starring with Busher—who would? Anyway, Lee Loeb is writing the original story, and Nat Perrin is going to produce it.

* * *

REX HARRISON, who played the harassed husband in "Blithe Spirit" pursued by his first wife's ghost in the London company, wants to turn the tables and play a ghost. He is talking with 20th Century-Fox about starring in "The Ghost of Mrs. Muir," which Fred Kohlmar is producing.

* * *

JOE BREEN, chief censor of the Johnston office, tells me he has passed "The Postman Always Rings Twice" 100 per cent. Said Breen: "I couldn't do anything else. It's a fine picture and there's nothing in the slightest offensive. It has none of the censorable matter in Caine's original novel." Well, that ought to please MGM, who has been doing raves and nip-ups over Lana Turner and John Garfield.

IT'S HAIL and farewell to Hollywood Canteen with the doors closing Thursday night. I'm not going to get into any argument about whether this spot where so many of our boys have found diversion and entertainment for the long war years should close now—or remain open. The point is the Canteen did a wonderful service when such service was needed and too much can not be said in praise of the Hollywood people who made the Canteen possible. I mean the star entertainers,, naturally, but also include the mothers, wives and others not so famous, who did the less glamorous jobs of dish-washing, and still others who arranged the shows every night. It was a great job for a great cause.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Jennifer Holt and Kenne Duncan should get together. Kenne says they are to be married, and she says not; congratulations to the popular banker, Chester Vanderlip. He's Hollywood's favorite banker, and it is his birthday today; Chico Marx is planning to open a restaurant in Hollywood. He's got the money and knows how he can get the points; Lana Turner had dinner at the Mocambo with Bob Hutton. Cleatus Caldwell, who was once Bob's heart, was in the second booth with Victor Mature. Buff Cobb was with Bob Walker, and while they were all sitting in close proximity, the head waiter called loudly: "Mr. Greg Bautzer on the telephone for Miss Buff Cobb"; Gene Tierney gets a flying trip to New York in a couple of weeks for one day for added scenes in "Dragonwyck."

BURTON OGILVIE, who for nine years was one of the managers at the Hawaiian Hotel, is now greeting friends at the Sir Francis Drake in San Francisco; Sen. Bilbo of Mississippi has received a four-page typewritten letter from Frank Sinatra on race intolerance. I'll say one thing, Frankie's consistent. That's the one subject nearest his heart; Harry Warren has created a trust fund for his daughter out of the royalties of "Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe," proving there was plenty of moo in that choo choo; Deanna Durbin's nursery is really a miniature apartment, even to a small living room for the Jackson heir or heiress.

Washington Scene

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20—An important member of the New Orleans Ass'n of Commerce was visiting Sen. Allen J. Ellender of Louisiana recently and launched in a long—and graphically biological—complaint about the state of his health.

Sen. Ellender

Sen. Ellender surveyed his guest from head to foot and finally let his eyes come to rest on the fellow's paunch.

"There is nothing wrong with you except that you overeat," he said. "You have been attending too many banquets."

Naturally, the gentleman thanked him profusely for the diagnosis—in a pig's nose, he did—and stalked out muttering that he was no glutton.

The incident, however, caused Sen. Ellender to begin thinking along dietetic lines. Very quietly he began conducting a survey of the eating habits of his colleagues in the Senate.

All Senators, by the very nature of their trade, are confirmed banquet-goers. They do more eating publicly than the elephants at the Zoo.

Senator Ellender said his investigations convinced him the majority were over-eating at these affairs, despite the fact that banquet food in Washington is not calculated to make a gourmet break into cheers. In fact many banqueteers have voiced the suspicion that they were eating the winner of the 1904 Kentucky Derby.

The Senator then said he began studying stomachs, and found far too many of them.

"I do not wish to be quoted as saying that a great number of my distinguished colleagues are too fat," he said, "because some of them might construe it as derogatory. But I will say that they possess a wide and varied assortment of paunches."

* * *

MR. ELLENDER said this did not go for all Senators, although he fears the situation is progressive.

"I seem to see more and more huge waistlines every year," he added.

The Senator, who is 54 years old, is 5 feet 7, and weighs 167 pounds, feels he is in pretty good shape himself; a matter he demonstrated some time ago by boxing with Henry Wallace. They belted each other for a few fast rounds and then Henry hit the deck. He has claimed ever since it was the slippery floor.

* * *

ANYWAY, Mr. Ellender felt it was incumbent upon him to do something for his over-stuffed comrades. So, having only their welfare at heart, he arose on the Senate floor and read this letter from a constituent, J. W. Reily:

"Dear Sir: I believe that it would be good policy to be liberal with food for Europe, and continue to maintain rationing in this country.

"It makes life much more interesting to be sacrificing for something or somebody, and I dare say that in the United States more trouble results from overeating than starvation.

"Am enclosing an article written by my father 28 years ago on the subject."

The Senator then read this document written by William B. Reily on Nov. 25, 1917:

"About 400 years ago there lived in Italy a good and wealthy man named Cornaro. At 40 years of age his health gave way. His physicians advised him to arrange his worldly affairs promptly as he had not much longer to live.

"Cornaro, however, had no idea of dying. He figured the thing out for himself and decided that his trouble was overeating. (At that time no one paid any attention to what or how much they ate.) He began to diet, reducing his food to 12 ounces of solid food a day.

"At 65 years of age he wrote a letter to his friends telling of his wonderful health and how dieting had enabled him not only to cure himself but had helped him to enjoy every minute of his life.

"At the age of 92 he wrote a second letter, and at 96 he wrote again, saying that his every faculty was perfect. He died at 103 years of age."

* * *

ON FEBRUARY 20, 1936—Nineteen years after he wrote it originally—Mr. Reily added this to his letter:

P. S.—Today, at 76, I believe in the above more firmly than I did at 58, when the foregoing was written.

To which the son added this further postscript:

P. P. S.—Mr. Reily passed away on Aug. 17, 1942—age 83 years, 5 months, 11 days.

* * *

(Author's Note: The Cornaro mentioned above is not to be confused with Primo Carnera, the tall Tower of Gorgonzola, who ate himself right out of prize-fighting.)

Boston After Dark

EXCLUSIVE: Miss Polly Cotter, the society young lady, is to become shortly a Mrs. Moran . . . Mr. Moran—whose first name we shall respectfully ask our sisters, the society reporters, to dig out for you readers—comes from New York. (See what unfinished reporting we contribute when really out of our element?)

* * *

THE CHARMING Polly, however, is so favorably and widely-known in the top-drawer social circles of the East that she is newsworthy enough to lead anyone's column . . . At one time, she was squired so frequently by Torby MacDonald, when Torby was star and captain of Harvard football teams, that it was regarded as odds-on that Miss Cotter would become Mrs. MacD. . . . But Torby married the blonde Phyllis Brooks, of stage and screen.

* * *

WE WISH IT WERE not below the dignity of the honored gentlemen who wear the robes of the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court to answer that recent full-page advertisement imputing to the "Massachusetts Courts" an illiberal attitude in the matter of censorship of literature (and stuff that passes for it) . . . The truth is that American brand of justice—in any state—does not appeal to some of the signatories of that advertisement, however much they may protest to the contrary.

* * *

A FULL 30 per cent minority of the names which appeared at the bottom of the advertisement have been familiar for years whenever "names" have been needed to lend weight to a "liberal" cause . . . Some of America's most recognized fellow-travelers signed that ad (or permitted their names to be used) . . . It would be interesting to check the frequency, those same fellow-travelers loaned their "names" in the critical period of United States history between the 1939 beginning of World War II and the June date in 1941 when Hitler declared war on Russia, to causes devoted to keeping "imperialistic America" out of the "imperial war."

* * *

MOST OF THE prominent pinkos in our world of letters, not to neglect the world of radio and other lively arts, signed that "Statement About Censorship and the Massachusetts Courts" . . . But you can't call the Reds among them Communists . . . Some of our American states, through their general courts (legislative) and courts of law (juridical), have protected them by making it a crime to "defame" them for membership in a party whose duty it is to discredit American institutions and whose members pledge themselves to protect one another by swearing not to divulge the identity of their comrades.

* * *

THUS YOU would have great difficulty proving them anything but what they permit themselves to be called—"liberals" . . . Certainly, there were famous and sincere men and women in the group which sponsored the expensive advertisement, and in the majority, no doubt.

* * *

BUT THAT PARTICULAR advertisement, pertinent only to the Bay State, recalled the frequent public appeals, through expensive mediums like newspapers and magazines, or such organizations as The League for Peace and Democracy . . . (Remember it?) . . . That dissolved suddenly and its constant signatories became founders of organizations which seemed to have a thorough change of heart after Germany attacked Russia.

"Have you tried 'Lost and Found?'"

Broadway

By Dorothy Kilgallen

Copyright, 1945, King Features Synd., Inc.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20—I have for some time maintained that my life was more than a little like that of a character in "You Can't Take It With You," and as the seasons advance I gather more and more proof.

Ilka Chase

I work in a cozy little room where only two telephones shrill at once, so I should be able to concentrate—and I would be, if it were not for the supernumeraries and bit players who stroll through in a fascinating but distracting parade:

A detective from headquarters who says the commissioner wants to know a little more about the floating crap game I mentioned the other day.

A window washer who chattily compares my decor with that of Ilka Chase's while he shampoos the panes.

An ancient character, slow-moving and deliberate of speech, who hails from (of all places) a messenger-boy outfit known as Mercury.

A girl carrying a 10-pound sack of fan mail.

A typewriter repair man

A young woman from a magazine who wants to interview me on how to combine marriage with a career. (Ha!)

And now pigeons!

* * *

YES, I said pigeons.

From the shadowy recesses of the room, as they say in the horror stories (and after all, this is a horror story), a young and attractive blonde dressed in Christmas red and billiard table green emerged with a letter in her hand.

"Here," she said, eloquently.

It was a note from one Jay Faggen, press agent for Nicky Blair's night club, the Carnival, inviting me to attend the opening on Nov. 19, and inviting me to R. S. V. P. via homing pigeon. The homing pigeon was in a box. A corner of the box was cut away and the pigeon was peering out at me with beady little eyes.

"Coo," I said, figuring that was the way to address a pigeon. No answer

"Take him away," I said to the girl. "He is inferior and untalented. If Nicky Blair wants to send me a pigeon, let him send me a pigeon that can talk."

The nerve of that Jay Faggen. I suppose he will be all over town telling people he gave me the bird and got by with it.

Cream Mask for Glamor

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE, Beauty and Fashion Editor

ALL RIGHT . . . so you're not the world's most beautiful woman. So you haven't the legs of Betty Grable . . . the sultry voice and bewitching eyes of Lauren Bacall . . . the box-office popularity of Greer Garson . . . the histrionic talent of Ingrid Bergman . . . but you're human.

You like life and you want to live. You want to have or to hold a husband, a home and children . . . that's the natural sequence of events. In this world, a woman takes what nature gives her . . . but if it isn't good enough . . . if it will never make the hit parade of love and romance . . . she tries to improve on it. And, of all the physical attributes . . . the face is most amenable to revamping and reclaiming.

We'll have many things to be thankful for on Thursday . . . and, while we're at it . . . let's not forget to thank those cosmetic men of genius whose talents make it possible for us to appear as a charming hostess . . . or a lovely-to-look-at-guest . . . at a well-laden table . . . a beguiling queen for King Turkey. A tasty dish before an even tastier one.

Thanksgiving this year will be a most festive occasion. Most of us will be supremely joyful having our boys reunited with us . . . or in the thought that they no longer must shoulder arms in the treacherous business of war. This year we women have a decided interest in looking gay and glad.

DOES NOT HARDEN

Wake up your face with one of these five-minute facial rejuvenators that we know of . . . a creamy white mask that returns almost a lifetime of goodness to your complexion. Its chalky whiteness smeared over your face will reflect a clown-like appearance in the mirror . . . and you'll laugh at yourself. And, when it is removed you'll still be blithe of spirit for your complexion will be as radiant as the many-coursed dinner.

This cream mask does not harden like the old-fashioned mud packs. It is a creamy pack which becomes smooth cream again when touched with water. It is better than a night's sleep for the complexion.

Cooking Half Turkey

By MARTHA LEE, Household Editor

IT MAKES US FEEL that we are getting back to normal when we hear how plentiful turkeys are again. However, when you shop for one this fall you may not find it easy to get the size you prefer. There are plenty of large birds in the market—but the demand for the small ones exceeds the supply.

There is no question about the desirability of buying a large turkey for a large family, or some other group. It is only recently that the possibility of buying half a large bird and successfully preparing it at home has seemed practical. Large turkeys yield more meat in proportion to weight than do smaller ones; but size is not a determining factor in the age and tenderness of a bird. And, in the interest of economy, the cost per pound of the large birds is several cents less than the smaller ones.

Now for cooking half a turkey. Correct roasting is a slow cooking by dry heat on a rack in an open pan. No water, no basting, no cover is required. For best results, follow these steps:

STEP 1

Rub cavity (cut side) with salt (⅛ tsp. per pound). Skewer skin to breast meat on the keel bone edge to prevent shrinking of skin and to protect breast meat. Tie leg just above knuckle joint securely to tail. No other trussing is necessary. The wing should be left flat against breast. Place half turkey, cut side down, on a flat rack in a shallow pan. Brush bird with melted fat and cover with a clean cloth (cheesecloth is excellent) dipped in melted fat.

STEP 2

Fasten the giblets and neck in the usual manner. Roast at constant moderately low temperature (325 deg. F.). Do not sear. Do not cover pan. Do not add water.

STEP 3

Now's the time for the stuffing! Allow 1 cup dressing per pound of bird purchased. Mound dressing on a well-greased double thickness of waxed paper to approximate the shape of the half turkey's cavity. When the bird is about half done (1½ to 2 hours), remove from oven and place paper with dressing on rack. Since it will not be possible to stuff the breast of the half turkey, bake an extra casserole, if your family likes dressing. Replace half turkey over the dressing and continue roasting until done. Spoon fat from bottom of pan to re-moisten cloth if necessary during roasting.

STEP 4

Roasting a half turkey will require 25 to 30 minutes per pound at 325 deg. F. To tell when the turkey is done, press the fleshy part of drumstick with your fingers protected by a cloth or paper. It is done if the meat feels very soft.

STEP 5

When the dinner is set for a definite hour, the wise homemaker will start the bird about ½ hour ahead of schedule. There is always the possibility that the bird may take a little longer than estimated. And most important, time is allowed for making gravy, removing the trussing cords, and arranging the bird on the platter. Lift the half turkey onto a warm platter. To serve dressing, spoon dressing from waxed paper into a side serving dish.

SAVORY BREAD STUFFING

1½ cups boiling water
¾ cup butter or margarine
½ cup minced onion
¼ tsp. pepper
1 tbsp. poultry seasoning or powdered sage
1½ tsp. salt
2 tbsp. dry or prepared mustard
2 tbsp. diced celery
3 qts. lightly packed, day-old bread crumbs
2 tbsp. minced parsley

Combine the boiling water, butter and onion and simmer 5 minutes. Add remaining ingredients and mix well. Stuffs body cavity of a bird about 8 lbs. (drawn weight).

Fashion

A HOUSECOAT with drama and distinction is this warm purple wool model with a sparkling ascot of aquamarine sequins to give it a festive air. Buttoned all the way down the front with the nipped-in waist and slight skirt fullness . . . it has graceful bell sleeves which button snugly at the wrist. Informal entertaining would be a pleasure garbed like this.—R. M.

Foreign Brides

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage.

IN THE late summer this column received a letter from a correspondent who signed herself "Contented Wife." The fact that a large number of foreign-born girls were marrying our soldiers abroad made her wonder if there would be enough husbands to go around in this country, and if a good many fine American girls would fail to get husbands as good as hers.

Since this woman's letter was published, replies have come from all over the United States, also V-mail letters from abroad. The latest contribution on the subject comes from Yale University:

Dear Miss Fairfax:

"I've been reading with increasing interest your column dealing with the delicate subject of American soldiers marrying foreign girls and bringing them over here. I'm one of the legion of Yanks engaged to a girl overseas. Since returning from England I've heard on all sides moans and groans of American girls who see their matrimonial chances slipping.

SHOULD TAKE STOCK

"They seem incapable of understanding how an American man could prefer a foreigner as a wife. In assuming that they have a corner on the world market of feminine charm, these American girls amaze me. Instead of bewailing their fate, why don't these girls take stock of themselves and try to discover why they came in second-best with some of our soldiers.

"After all, the majority of American soldiers who've been overseas are still loyal to the 'girl back home,' convinced she's tops. I've yet to hear of any mass desertion of home-town sweethearts for English, French, Dutch or Belgian girls. M. K."

The Correct Thing

By ELINOR AMES

INTRODUCTIONS HINT—If a person to whom you are being introduced does not recall a previous casual meeting, don't insist. "But you must remember. We met at Tom's wedding two years ago!" It's permissible to mention the meeting but it is not tactful to press the matter. In the case of a prominent person who meets many people, it is better to accept the second introduction without comment.

Fur Hoods on Winter Coats

By BETTINA BEDWELL

COATS that sport a hood are getting to be big-time styles this Winter. They come in fur, with fur hoods that are usually separate from the coat, but part of it just the same. They come in cloth, with the hood attached in most cases. They are good looking and they are also very useful to have in cold weather, which explains their leap into sudden fame.

One of the nicest hooded coats is sketched by Miss Dulin. This coat comes from Anthony Blotta, who is an ace designer of coats. He cuts it somewhat similar to a monk's robe, and makes it of brown fleecy surfaced Roder wool. There is a becoming rounded shoulder yoke, and the hood ties at the throat in front on self-material ties. Very high black spats are a Blotta accessory to go with the coat.

Fair Attracts Many

By BETTY ALDEN

THE INK was hardly dry on the surrender treaties before Mrs. Colin Robert Popham Smith (Lilian Fernald) of Bermuda began to plan her first postwar visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Fernald of Beacon st.

Mrs. Colin R. P. Smith

In her debutante days Lilian thought nothing of going to Bermuda several times a year but since settling down there after her marriage to a Bermudian in 1941 the war curtailed her trips in the opposite direction. She is here now with her little daughter, Frances, and planning to stay most of the winter judging by the cozy fur coat she wore to the Animal Rescue League Fair yesterday. And Frances has started nursery school at Brimmer May, Lilian's Alma Mater.

Mr. Smith, son of a prominent Bermuda family who saw to it that the former Boston deb had a whirl of yacht club and government parties in the isle of Easter lilies, hopes to join her for the holidays.

Mother, daughter and Grandmother Fernald made an attractive three-generation trio at the Fair, joining Mrs. Malcolm Kirkbride, one of Lilian's bridesmaids, at lunch and later walking home with their arms full of Christmas shopping.

The annual bazaar attracted many holiday shoppers. Mrs. Geoffrey Whitney did a big business in winter radishes, flowers, herbs and other produce from her beautiful Milton estate at the table where she was assisted by her sturdy young granndson and by Mrs. Edward N. Fenno, Mrs. Rutherford Bingham and Mrs. Paul Killiam. Mrs. Charles Galacar helped to man the baby table and others glimpsed were Mrs. Daniel Staniford, Miss Mary Thomas Sawyer, Miss Edith Sears and Miss Maria Hastings.

* * *

ROUND AND ABOUT: Robert Meyer of Chestnut Hill is on his way home from the Navy to greet his third child, Robert Hornblower Meyer, born Nov. 16 at Faulkner Hospital. The baby's mother is the former Louise Whipple Fry, daughter of Mrs. D. Whipple Fry of Chestnut Hill, petite and youthful grandmother of six boys and two girls.

Over tea and cakes at the Samuel Adams School, yesterday afternoon, some 150 Bostonians had an opportunity to discuss Ella Winter's new book, "I Saw the Russian People," at a party in honor of the Cambridge author on publication day. Mrs. Leslie Arnold and Mrs. Clive Knowles of Weston were the pourers.

Lt. Peter Pratt of Milton and his bride, whose wedding picture graces the newlywed page of the current Town and Country, are in Texas.

* * *

BY AN ODD coincidence Kay Salt, first of this season's debs to announce her engagement, will have the same last name as her sister, Mrs. Arthur John Lockhart (Barbara Salt). Her fiance is Lt. (jg) David A. Lockhart, no relation to her doctor brother-in-law. The engagement was to have been a secret till Dave's return from the Pacific but the news leaked out at Kay's coming-out party. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd B. Salt of Chestnut Hill.

$1000 'Death'

RAYTOWN, Mo., Nov. 20 (AP)—R. H. Kenagy, Jr., had his 96th birthday, and a good laugh on three of his sons in the insurance business.

At 95 age, say the insurance statistics, only three out of every 100,000 persons are supposed to be alive, and at 96 none is alive statistically and the company pays off to policy holders.

Thus Kenagy can collect on a $1000 insurance policy he took out in 1896.

ACTOR GREENSTREET ILL

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 20 (AP)—Film Actor Sydney Greenstreet was confined to his home today with a serious bronchial infection. The actor's condition requires use of an oxygen tent.

MARCY McGUIRE
To RKO Boston

Popular Stars Head for RKO

Johnny Scat Davis and his orchestra, of the rustic rhythm and homespun humor, and Hollywood's one-girl musical comedy cast, 18-year-old Marcy McGuire, are headed for the RKO Boston to add to the customers thankfulness on Thursday.

These popular entertainers head the new stage show. For film fare, there will be "Man Alive," starring Pat O'Brien, Adolph Menjou and Ellen Drew and featuring Rudy Vallee.

Bandleader Davis, as you know, has a tremendous radio and recording following. Nor is he unknown to moviegoers, who may remember seeing him in "Hollywood Hotel," "Brother Rat" and "Knickerbocker Holiday." Sally Lang and Danny Baxter are featured vocalists with the Davis orchestra.

Young Miss McGuire, the screens singing, dancing, clowning star, will offer bits from her latest and her oldest films.

Prefers Stage To Hollywood

By PEGGY DOYLE

The importance of being unimportant is the lure that is putting a continent between home-loving Lois Wilson and sunkist California.

That and an attachment for the theater that is as enduring if less critical than that of Broadway's gleeful Boswell, George Jean Nathan

"Hollywood does things to you,' Miss Wilson was saying late yesterday over a pre-performance tabloid dinner of salad and tea (straight). Her skilled characterization of a nice but not too skilled actress is one of the things in John van Druten's new comedy, "The Mermaids Singing," that makes the author, producer (Alfred de Liagre, Jr) and audiences happy.

The obvious and frank thing to say to that is that it has done nice things to Miss Wilson. She pioneered in silent pictures as a kid, you may recall, continued almost uninterruptedly until 10 years ago when she developed a combination screen allergy and footlights phobia and now shows up under the Statler's ultra-bright lights engagingly fresh and slender and in no need of retakes or retouching.

Hollywood's persistence in recognizing and catering to its screenotables inevitably gives them a false sense of importance. Miss Wilson up and got out of town, she was that uncomfortable with it impinging on her otherwise sane estimate of herself.

"I began to realize that I knew very little about my craft. Playing a role in 'takes', as one does in Hollywood, makes it difficult to achieve more than a superficial allusion of character. I began to sense the need of more scope in rounding out a character and getting the feel of the play as a whole."

And so another stage-struck Hollywoodian detoured a successful screen career Broadway-ward.

"It's wonderful," sums up Miss Wilson. "After eight or nine years I'm still learning. Just rehearsing these past weks with a producer and a director of the calibre of Alfred De Liagre, Jr., and John van Druten and as part of a cast such as they have assembled for 'Mermaids' has been a capsule drama course

"Naturally, I can make more money in pictures. We Wilsons are a deeply devoted family. There are times when I'm genuinely lonely for mother and my sisters and our pleasant way of California living. But, to them as well as to me, this is more important right now.

"I gave up assignments in 'Keys to the Kingdom' and 'The Sullivans' to stay on Broadway. I succeeded Mary Phillips in 'Chicken Every Sunday' in the New York engagement. I toured with 'Junior Miss' and 'Life With Father.' And now, I have my heart's desire, a role I created in a Broadway-bound production . . . we open next Wednesday night. Hollywood stardom was never like this."

WE'RE IN THE MONEY! Eddie Bracken and Veronica Lake hit the financial jackpot in their new picture, "Hold That Blonde!" The Paramount comedy is due Thanksgiving Day at the Paramount and Fenway Theaters.

'B. D. B.' Tickets

With the postponement of the opening of the new musical, "Billion Dollar Baby," to Thursday night at the Shubert, those having tickets for the Wednesday and Thursday evening and Thursday matinee performances must exchange them at the boxoffice. Mitzi Green and Joan McCracken head the cast of the new show.

Carroll Elected Head Of Mass. Fair Circuit

By JACK CONWAY

EDWARD J. CARROLL, president and general manager of the Great Barrington Fair, has been named president of the "Massachusetts Fair Circuit," a new racing organization, which will represent Marshfield, Brockton, Northampton and Barrington in all matters pertaining to pari-mutuel betting and horse racing at the Fairs . . . An effort will be made to arrange satisfactory dates for each organization, and to place horse racing at the half-mile tracks in this State on the highest possible plane.

The "Massachusetts Fair Circuit" will hold a meeting in Boston next month at which 1946 dates will be discussed . . . Officers of the organization recently met in Worcester, and set up plans that should benefit the various State fairs . . . There were more horses and better races at the fairs this year than ever before, and it is the hope of the members of the "Massachusetts Fair Circuit" to do better next season.

Edward J. Carroll

George Martin, a graduate of the All-America boxing tournaments and later a star in the ranks of the professionals, has received his discharge from the Navy after more than two years of service . . . Martin will start training at once and he will soon be back throwing leather in the ring.

As Martin returns to the boxing game, Henry Chemel bows out of the fistic pastime . . . Chemel has agreed to accept the advice of Harry Kelley, his manager and trainer, and retire . . . Chemel has suffered repeated cuts over his eyes, and Kelley feels it would be unwise for the former Polish middleweight to continue boxing . . . Chemel came to this country from Poland where he established a name for himself as an amateur boxer . . . Chemel became a professional here, and put up some of his best bouts in New England rings . . . Kelley says Chemel would now like to teach boxing at a New England college or school . . . Any institution desiring Chemel's services should communicate with Harry Kelley at the latter's gym on Hanover st.

Pep Signs for Bout

WILLIE PEP, recognized as world's featherweight champion in New York, has been signed to meet Eddie Giosa of Philadelphia in a 10-round bout at a Callahan A. C. show at Mechanics Building on next Monday night . . . Since receiving his discharge from service, Pep easily won from Paulie Jackson and Mike Mertyk.

Pep has been the most consistent boxer in the world . . . He proved his class by the ease with which he handled Sal Bartolo in their last Boston bout . . . Giosa is a 20-year-old youngster who aspires to ring fame . . . He has scored wins over Pedro Firpo, Maxie Shapiro, Steve Kronis and Ellis Phillips . . . In the amateurs, he won 117 straight bouts . . . Giosa hopes to make a creditable showing against the elusive Pep, who is perfection in the ring . . . This writer quoted the Green Bay Packers as a 1-5 shot over the Boston Yanks, and they proved I had not underrated them . . . Pep is a 1-10 shot over Giosa, or am I too conservative in my price?

Still Chance for H. C.

THERE IS STILL a feeling at Holy Cross that the Crusaders will play in the Orange Bowl game at Miami, Fla., on New Year's Day if they win over Boston College at Fenway Park next Sunday . . . Head Coach John DaGrosa declared at the football writers' luncheon at the Hotel Kenmore that it was difficult to keep the players steamed up week after week with games that were not of great importance . . . DaGrosa believes that if Holy Cross were to play Temple again that it would win.

Holy Cross would assure the Orange Bowl of selling out . . . There are thousands of New England people in Florida and there will be many more there after the Christmas holidays . . . These people would like to see Holy Cross one of the teams in the Orange Bowl

Two Princeton Backs Laid Up With Grippe

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 20 (AP)—Two halfbacks, Paul White and Bob Schmon, on whom Princeton has counted heavily for its game with Yale were in bed with the grippe yesterday as the Tigers began to practice for the traditional meeting with the Elis.

The one bright spot in the Tigers' future was that Neil Zundel, star center who was out of action all last week with grippe, was back in good shape yesterday afternoon.

The varsity worked in the ROTC riding hall yesterday when rain fell steadily for several hours before practice, marking the first time this season that the weather has driven the Tigers indoors.

New Ivy League Code Puts Curbs on Football

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 20 (AP)—For the first time since they began meeting on the gridiron in the 1870s, eight leading colleges have banded to play football under the terms of a formal agreement, beginning next season. They are Brown, Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth, Harvard, Yale, Princeton and Pennsylvania. All have signed an agreement for the purpose of continuing college football so as to retain its value while keeping it in proportion to the fundamental purposes of academic life, it was announced today.

Freshmen are barred from varsity competition and post-season games are banned.

All except Brown have been recognized as members of the informal Ivy League and all are members of the Eastern Intercollegiate A. A.

"Emphasis upon intercollegiate competition must be brought into harmony with the purposes of the institution," the agreement said.

"The problem is one of avoiding the well-recognized excesses of intercollegiate football while retaining and enhancing the values which are known to lie in the sport."

Any of the eight institutions may withdraw one year after filing notice with the others.

The participating institutions are free to arrange their own schedules and are not obliged to play each other. They agreed:

1—To co-operate through committees on administration and eligibility.

2—To give prompt attention to any actions or policies recommended on administration and abide by policies and decisions which have received majority approval.

3—That football schodules shall not be arranged more than two years in advance and that they shall not engage in post-season contests or contests designed to ettle championhips.

Eli Likes Deal

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 20 (AP)—Ogden Miller, Yale athletic director, says he's "extremely enthusiastic" about the new Ivy League aggreement. While stressing the non-evclusivity of the agreement Miller thought all might come to play each other in time.

He would be reluctant, he said, to close the door on such great institutions as Army and Navy, although he said Yale would have "no business" playing them at the present time. "They and a number of other colleges" said Miller, "are great people and we like to play them."

4—To provide complete information to the eligibility committee concerning all candidates for freshman and varsity football teams and that no student shall be eligible who is not in good academic standing as determined by his institution. Students must satisfactorily complete a year's work at a school before becoming eligible for its varsity.

No student would be eligible who has received financial support from any source except from personal or family resources, in return for services (other than of an athletic character) rendered through employment at normal wages, from scholarships awarded through regular academic channels, or from government grants to war veterans.

In due time, the committee on administration is expected to make recommendations concerning the length of the playing season, the extent of spring practice, the timing of the start of fall practice, the proper place and treatment of scouting, operating budgets and ticket prices, and the off-campus activity of ,coaches, such as broadcasting, writing for publication and the endorsement of commercial products.

The first chairman of the committee on administration will be the Harvard representative and the vice-president the Yale representative. The Cornell representative will be first chairman of the eligibility committee and the Dartmouth representative the vice-chairman.

The agreement, to become effective at the end of the current football season, was signed by Pres. Henry M. Wriston of Brown, acting Pres. Frank D. Fackenthal of Columbia, Pres. Edmund E. Day of Cornell, Pres. John S. Dickey of Dartmouth, Pres. James B. Conant of Harvard, Pres. George William McClelland of Pennsylvania, Pres. Harold W. Dodds of Princeton and Pres. Charles Seymour of Yale.

Bruins On Edge for Canadiens

By BILL GRIMES

"Usually, when a team runs into a ten-day break in its schedule, as we have," declared "Uncle" Arthur Ross today, "the players do not look too well on their next time out.

"But, I'm confident that the Bruins will prove to be the exception to the rule, when they take on Les Canadiens tomorrow night at the Garden.

"Since they swamped the Rangers in New York a week ago Sunday, the Bruins have had six one hour work out sessions at the Arena. They had some worthwhile scrimmages and I believe they are rounding into top shape. They began to come on their last road trip during which they knocked off the Maple Leafs and Rangers before and after a setback by the Flying Frenchmen.

"We beat Canadiens on our first encounter, which was staged here at the Garden and, but for two lucky goals, would have duplicated that feat in Montreal. After the game in the Forum, Coach Dick Irvin warned all of the N. H. L. clubs to watch the Bruins. Well, he'll have an opportunity to watch the Bruins again tomorrow night and unless I'm badly mistaken, he will not enjoy this visit to the Hub any more than he did his last one.

"The Bruins will be stronger tomorrow night than they were in either of the other games they played Canadiens. Pat Egan's knee has finally responded to treatment and the big Irishman has been flying at the Arena. Unfortunately, Bobby Bauer will not be ready for action tomorrow. His left shoulder has improved but it is still sore and he will stay out of action until such a time as I am satisfied that he has completely recovered from the effects of the "heave ho" Jack Stewart gave him in Detroit.

"Dit" Clapper will be on the job tomorrow, despite the fact that he has a chipped bone in his foot," concluded Manager Ross. Upon his return from New York, "Dit" had his foot X-rayed and discovered that he had been playing with a chipped bone, since he stopped that puck with his foot in Toronto on Sept. 27.

The Bruins expected to greet Frankie Brimsek yesterday when they gathered at the Arena for an hour work out. But, "Mr. Zero" failed to put in an appearance. However, it is very likely that he will show up some time today.

As it has been a year and a half since Brimsek donned goal pads and kicked pucks aside, it will be at least a fortnight and possibly three weeks before he will take over Paul Bibeault's berth.

Brimsek will be given all the time he wants to get in shape, according to no less an authority than Ross.

Frank Brimsek Works With Bruins at Arena

Frank Brimsek was back with the Bruins today. The veteran goalie who was given his discharge from the Coast Guard recently, skated at the Arena after posing for cameraman. He'll be ready for action in a couple of weeks and meanwhile will get into shape with the B's and Pics.

Kenny Reardon of the Canadiens arrived ahead of the club today to visit with brother Terry of the Bruins whom he had not had a chance to visit at any length since he returned from war service.

BCH Loses Trio for Memorial Test

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Boston College High School's hopes of arranging a post-season game hit a new low this week as a trio of first stringers faced ineligibility with the issuance of marks tomorrow afternoon—just hours before the Eaglets will take over the Braves Field gridiron for the wind-up of their regular schedule against Roxbury Memorial.

This contest will co-feature the pre-Thanksgiving Day doubleheader, sharing the spotlight with the annual mechanical tussle between Boston Trade and Tech.

B. C. High officials had hoped to line up Brockton, Everett or possibly La Salle of Providence, R. I., for a contest at Fenway Park, Dec. 1. As a matter of fact, the trio are still under consideration for an attraction that would draw a record crowd for the schoolboy campaigning. But if this trio fails to make the grade, the idea will be completely abandoned.

BULLETIN

There'll be a true bargain bill at Braves Field tomorrow afternoon, with four football games starting at noon. The Hyde Park vs. Jamaica Plain and Roslindale vs. Brighton contests, washed out today, start the action. They'll be followed by the regularly scheduled tilts between B. C. High and Roxbury Memorial, and Boston Tech and Trade.

No doubt, the Eaglets looked like the best B. C. High team in 16 years as they romped through the opening half of the schedule. They'd taken Lawrence into camp (27-7) in their big venture into Class A competition. Off that triumph, it looked as though BCH had an easy time of it in the city ranks.

And, evidently, the BCH team agreed whole-heartedly, as Boston English punctured this dream in a 19-19 dream game.

BCH can still win the city title, by whipping Memorial, so that a post-season game would still be a sweet attraction. It will all depend on how well the beef-packed line can hold up against the Roxbury offensive. The Eaglet frontier will get a boost in the return of end Dan Lyons to grab off the passes of ace Walter Murphy.

In the co-billing, Coach Harry Tilton's Traders will be favored to chalk up another in its wild dash down the stretch. Beyond any doubt, Trade is the hottest team in the city circuits at the present time, catching on fire two weeks ago against Latin, and rubbing it into Commerce and Memorial.

Magic Army Coach Earns Only $3500

By BOB CONSIDINE
INS SPORTS WRITER

NEW YORK, Nov. 20 (INS)—Col. Earl "Red" Blaik, the quiet craftsman who built the Army football team into one of the greatest powers in grid history, is the lowest paid coach in U. S. collegiate football ranks.

It was revealed yesterday at West Point that Blaik is paid $3500 a year "plus the use of a house." His total financial income for the season was placed "at between $4100 and $4200." The Army wonder team will play to more than $1,000,000 in gate receipts this season.

Blaik's base pay in the Army of $3500 is $8500 less per year than Lt. Paul Brown, USNR, is paid for not coaching. Brown is receiving $1000 a month retainer fee from the owners of the Cleveland Browns of the All America Football League, which begins operations next fall. Brown's salary will be $25,000 with the Browns.

Average salary of the college coaches whose clubs Army has swamped this year in rolling up 380 points to opponents' 33 is $15,000. A number of U. S. coaches make more than $15,000, including Lou Little of Columbia; Bernie Bierman of Minnesota, Fritz Crisler of Michigan, Frank Thomas of Alabama and Clark Shaughnessy of Pittsburgh.

Blaik himself was cut from $15,000 to less than his present salary when he went back into uniform in 1943 with the rank and pay of a lieutenant colonel. He graduated from West Point in 1920 and retired in 1922, but retained his reserve status.

SOON TO QUIT

Close friends of the master coach assert that Blaik's football career will end at Army. He will don civilian clothes shortly after the Navy game, at which time he will regain his old $15,000 stipend. But no larger offer from another school or professional club will tempt him.

Blaik will return to his building business in Dayton, Ohio, when he feels he has "done his job" at West Point.

His 1946 team will have the services of the same stellar backfield which has been the scourge of football for the last two seasons. Among these will be Glenn Davis and Doc Blanchard, All-America aces. Davis' twin brother, Ralph, will move up from the "B" squad.

Blaik came to West Point from Dartmouth as head coach early in 1941, after Army's disastrous 1940 season had seen it lose 48-0 to Penn and 45-0 to Cornell.

Blaik was paid $12,500 a year at Dartmouth, where his team set records for attendance. Curiously, his Army teams were something less than sensational during the two years he was paid $15,000 by the academy. His 1941 club won 5, lost 3 and tied 1. The following season Army won six and lost three.

WANTS NO BOWL GAME

But coincident with his heavy reduction in pay, after going into uniform, Blaik's clubs began to roll. Through 1943, 1944 and 1945 Army's record is 24 victories, two losses and one tie. Blaik has won his last 17 games in a row, including Army's first two consecutive victories over Notre Dame.

If Army beats Navy Dec. 1 in its final game—the Cadets will be favored to win by perhaps 30 points—Blaik will have given Army its first twin unbeaten years in a football history dating back to the Gay Nineties. During the two years span, despite war restrictions, the Army team has played to 800,000 spectators.

Blaik is opposed to a Rose Bowl appearance for the 1945 team, despite heavy pressure being brought to bear on him from all sides, including the Los Angeles parents of the fabulous halfback Davis.

He would prefer to wind things up in traditional fashion with the Navy game in Philadelphia. He still entertains high hopes that his old friend General of the Army Douglas MacArthur—who has avidly followed Blaik's success at West Point—will be able to return from Japan in time for the game.

THE PRIME OF LIFE CAN BE PROLONGED

Dr. Henry C. Sherman Says:

"A generous supply of Calcium results in better development of the young, a higher level of adult health, and a longer lease of what we may call the prime of life—the period between maturity and old age." FOOD RATIONING MAY NOT SUPPLY SUFFICIENT CALCIUM, SAYS CLAUDE WICKARD, former U. S. Secretary of Agriculture.
Calcium is more often deficient in the diet than any other minerals. Calcium deficiency is a form of malnutrition that may be the cause of acidity, nervousness, fatigue, weakened heart muscles and other effects which hasten the onset of "OLD AGE" and shorten the "PRIME OF LIFE."

AM I NERVOUS?

Sleeplessness with ragged, jagged nerves may be due to a calcium deficiency which upsets the parathyroid glands causing intense sensitivity of the whole nervous system.

DO I TIRE EASILY?

A calcium starved body tires easily. A calcium deficiency may cause an upset nerve system, less strength, energy and vitality. No person can be normal without a sufficient supply of calcium.

AM I OLD AT 40?

Old at 40, evidences of early aging, perhaps at 50 or 60, may be due to calcium deficiency. Calcium is needed, in adequate amount, in the repair and growth of body organs, tissues, cells. If your health is impared, if you are run down, tired, old at 40 and nervous because you do not get enough calcium or Phosphorus or Vitamin D or Vitamin B1 add KAL to your diet. See how much better you feel after KAL helps to build up, then maintain a normal Calcium-Phosphorus balance and help overcome the ill effects of a deficiency of the vital elements KAL so richly supplies.

Navy Has Chosen New Football Coach

NEW YORK, Nov. 20 (INS)—The "Army and Navy Register" yesterday added fuel to the fire concerning the possible replacement of Comr. Oscar Hagberg, Navy head football coach, with the statement that Comdr. Louis J. Kirn, U. S. N., has been chosen to succeed Hagberg.

"The proposal to switch to a professional coach recurs when the midshipmen are not sweeping the football season," the 'Register' declared. Kirn has been as closely connected with football as was possible during the war years, in contrast to Hagberg, who came to the Annapolis grid pilot's post directly from a lengthy tenure of Pacific submarine service.

No public announcement was forthcoming from the naval academy.

Harlow Rates Line Football Infantry

By HERB FINNEGAN

The Hestons, Mahans, Granges, Blanchards and Davises make the headlines and are immortalized in song and story, but football games still are won and lost in the line. Dick Harlow, Ox DaGrosa and Rip Engel convinced listeners of that at Boston's weekly football forum at the Kenmore.

"The scrimmage line is still the infantry of football," said Harlow.

"It takes control of actual ground and holds it. Our line was better than Brown's in the second half of Saturday's game, and that is the reason we won. On the other hand, the Yanks' line, with the exception of Don Currivan, was no match for Green Bay Sunday, and so the Yanks took a shellacking."

Engel agreed that Harvard's line outplayed Brown in the second half, said that the Yale game the week before has softened his Bruins considerably.

"We played inspired football against Yale, and we were helped when Paul Walker left the game early. The Elis missed his leadership, and that made it easier for us. But that Yale line is bigger and stronger than Harvard's, and for that reason I believe Yale will win over Harvard on Dec. 1."

This came in the nature of a surprise because Brown bested Yale 20-7, lost to Harvard 14-7. It shows how highly football coaches rate the value of line play.

DaGrosa, too, admitted his line was outplayed by Temple as the Crusaders were dumped out of the undefeated class 14-6. "We just couldn't get our hands on the ball," said the eloquent HC coach. "But there is no hysteria at Holy BC," he added.

There was no Monday practice, as usual, there will be no scrimmaging before next Sunday's test with BC. Yes, he thought HC would bounce back for the BC game, just as Temple bounced back after being knocked out of the undefeated class by Penn State.

"It might have been a whole lot better for us if Temple had beaten Penn State," he said.

He admitted the loss of fullback Kissell hurt a lot because the fullback does the spinning in HC's single wing system, and he put too much responsibility on Steve Conroy by shifting him from qb to fb and having him call signals as well as spinning.

"Brennan will be our blocking back and will call signals against BC" he added.

Desroches is feared lost for the BC game but Strogny, a newcomer, will do a good tackle job, he admitted. And he predicted a brilliant future for De Filippo, a natural passer. His starting lineup will be: Dieckelmann and Conway, ends; Strogny and Donnelly, tackles; Cregar and Kronoff, guards; Stephenson, center; Brennan, qb; Koslowski, lhb; Byers, rhb; Conroy, fb.

"Perhaps the beating was good for us," DaGrosa said. "At least there won't be any danger of entering the BC game as overconfident as BC's 1942 team was against HC."

"Brown," said Rip Engel, "has lost 22 men by induction, injuries and graduation since the season opened. It lost McFadden, only vet from the 1944 Colgate game, in the first minute of the first game (Penn). Brown closes its season with Colgate next Saturday" . . . Harvard has a "breather" in BU this week . . . BC faces the hardest week of the year getting ready for the HC game next Sunday. De Rosa, at last, will be available. He's needed at fullback.

Jackie Harris Grabs Decision

By BILL SMITH

Jackie Harris, 127¼, Malden, was strong in pursuit of Buddy Hayes, South End, today. Harris with a big final round, garnered a split 10-chapter decision over Young Tony (nee Oshiro), 132, Newark, in the exciting feature of a Callahan A. C. show at Mechanics Building last night to amplify his challenges to Hayes, regarded as the uncrowned N. E. 126-pound champion.

Referee Tommy Rawson and Judge Billy McMenimen voted for Harris while Judge Jim Carrig cast for the Hawaiian-American who dropped the Oshiro and became Young Tony shortly after Pearl Harbor because Oshiro had a Japanese ring to it.

This chronicler felt Harris won the fight by a visible margin although it was just as well Harris hammered Young Tony in the closing chapter to make it convincing. The decision was well-received. There was no knockdown although Young Tony hit Harris with several punches while Harris replied with several-hundred-and-one, sealing Tony's right eye.

President to See A.-N. Contest

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20 (AP)—President Truman will go to Philadelphia Saturday, December 1, to attend the Army-Navy football game.

The White House said the President, Mrs. Truman and their daughter, Margaret, will travel by train, leaving here Saturday morning and returnng to Washington that night.

In accordance with custom, the President will sit on one side of the field—the Army side in this case—during the first half, and on the Navy side during the second half.

This is the President's first out-of-town engagement since he cancelled a series of scheduled fall trips into North Carolina, Georgia, Missouri, Oklahoma and Texas.

Set to Go—Boxing's famous fighting "clown," Walter "Popeye" Woods pulls on his gym gloves to go into training today for his fight against Jake LaMotta at Boston Garden, Friday night. Part of the proceeds will be donated to the Record-American-Advertiser Hospitalized Vets' Fund.

In Need of an Octopus—Charles J. Arden, traffic department executive of the Illinois Bell Telephone Co., hasn't enough arms to put through the many calls that are flashing on his switchboard in Chicago. He was left alone when operators walked out in a strike which has long distance service tied up in practically all of Illinois. Some 8700 operators are out.
